The equipment so illustrated included hidden automatic cameras, voice recorders and various types of radio equipment. The film is a 16 mm one which is 25 minutes in duration and was produced for a total cost of DM 2,000 under the direction of Dr. HALSWICK aka Dr. LOECHNER, a BfV freier Mitarbeiter who heads the BfV's covert surveillance team.

the BfV, it is none the less felt that the shortage of experienced, capable intelligence personnel will impel the BfV to so utilize these persons. The following are two instances illustrating the above comments.

(1) Erion TENCER, aka Eduard WOLTERS: TENCER was employed from 1950 to 1956 as a BfV "freier Mitarbeiter" under the cover name WOLTERS. The BfV tried to conceal his employment and identity due to his prior intelligence activities against Allied Forces during World War II. He proved to be a very capable man and in light of the fact that the Allied Powers can no longer vitiate such appointments, TENCER has been given official status by the BfV as head of Section IV-B (CE Operations).

(2) Dr. Gustav HALSWICK, aka Dr. LOCHER aka Dr. LOECHNER: HALSWICK is presently under consideration for appointment as a regular to assume the position of head of Section V-2 (Complaint Cases and Physical Security in government). He was previously employed from 1953 to the present as a "freier Mitarbeiter" of the BfV and headed the former "Haus Kapelle" in its covert investigations. He is a former member of the NSDAP and served with the Nazi SS and SD organizations. Notwithstanding his previous background, he is a competent intelligence employee and will probably be appointed to the aforementioned position.
